FURNISHES FOOD TO QUARANTINED

C. Bernard Hoffman, of Gettysburg, Acts as Health Officer for Unfortunates on the Mountain. Five Homes Quarantined.

C. Bernard Hoffman, of Gettysburg, is making regular trips to the small pox infected region of Hamilton township, furnishing supplies to the quarantine district and seeing that proper disinfecting is done.

Mr. Hoffman, who is the health officer of Cumberland and Straban townships, was appointed to take up this work out of his district because the regular health officer of Hamilton, J. Harry Pecher, has not been vaccinated recently and it was not deemed wise to allow him to be exposed in any way to the contagion.

In his visit to the Cold Springs region last week Mr. Hoffman disinfecting the store of John Barnes at which Philip Wagaman, in whose home there are four cases of the disease, was accustomed to spend considerable time. After the disinfecting was done Mr. Hoffman had the necessary supplies sent to Mr. Wagaman's home and those of Charles Barnes, William Carbaugh and J. Philip Wagaman. These four, together with the home of Mr. Barnes, the store keeper, are all under quarantine as well as that of Napoleon Nagle immediately across the Franklin County line.

The residents of all the houses are related and have been mingling freely with each other before the small pox diagnosis was made so that as a matter of necessary precaution all were put under quarantine which is being rigidly enforced through the efforts of the state constabulary.

Adams County pays for the supplies for the quarantined people and Mr. Hoffman expects to make another trip to the mountain this week to see that all are supplied with the necessary articles of food. In his former trip to Cold Spring he did not see any of the patients and probably will not this time, taking all precaution in protecting himself.

Mr. Hoffman carries on his duties as health officer in addition to keeping the toll gate on the Littlestown pike immediately outside of town.

BIG TOURIST SEASON

According to the passenger traffic officials of the Western Maryland railway, the 1911 season at Gettysburg and Pen Mar will be the best in the history of the company's summer excursion business.

The annual reunions at Pen Mar of the Lutheran, Reformed and Presbyterian churches of Southern Maryland, Virginia, Maryland, West Virginia and the District of Columbia during the latter part of July and the first week in August, promise to draw record-breaking crowds at each gathering. It is expected that at least 15,000 church people will attend each reunion. In addition to the other excursions there will be a reunion of Odd Fellows from all sections of Southern Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia, which, it is expected, will attract about 10,000 visitors to the Blue Ridge resort August 10.

The Harrisburg-Gettysburg Alumni Club voted unanimously to assist Gettysburg College in raising a $300,000 endowment fund at a meeting held Friday evening.

GUN AND KNIFE IN FAMILY FEUD

West End Residents Take Part in Family Quarrel and Use Unusual Means to Subdue Head of the House. Son in Jail.

Sheriff Fissel on Saturday released Mrs. Emma Kauffman, of near Orrtanna, on a charge of assault and battery preferred by her husband, Wesley Kauffman, and took into custody her son, Leroy Baker, on the same charge.

The affair grew out of a family fight in which a butcher knife and a gun figured. Kauffman is an intemperate man and after an absence of several days is said to make a habit of coming home, abusing his wife and making things unpleasant generally. One night last week a fracas of this nature was in progress when Mrs. Kauffman took a butcher knife to defend herself and her children joined in protecting her, the son Leroy, using a revolver the shot of which went wild.

The outcome of the fight was that the husband and step father had the two arrested. Mrs. Kauffman being brought to jail next morning about daybreak and the boy giving bail for appearance at the hearing which was held Saturday before Squire Rife of Orrtanna.

The only witness against the woman was a little girl who was so small that her testimony was not admitted and Mrs. Kauffman was given her freedom. Her son, Leroy Baker, was held however when he was unable to give bail for court. He did not deny that he had shot but said he did not aim at his stepfather. In addition, he remarked that the revolver was of so little account that he would not be afraid to have any one aim it at him and shoot. The affair created quite a little interest in the west end where the parties are well known. The case against Baker will be brought up in August Court.

BRINGS SUIT FOR $7000

Joseph A. Myrick, of Gettysburg, has brought suit through his attorney, J. L. Williams, Esq., to recover $7000 damages from the Times and News Publishing Company in an action of trespass for libel. The suit grows out of the publication in these columns on May 2 of an article headed "Bogus Canvasser Out." The article referred to mentioned no names but the plaintiff says in his statement that "it did not mean and could not mean and was not intended to mean any other person or persons." He alleges that he "has been, and is greatly injured in his good name and credit, and brought into public contempt and disgrace, as well as damage and injury to his reputation and business as a canvasser and solicitor, and has suffered damages from physical and mental suffering," on account of the article and the prominence alleged to have been given it.

COMMENCEMENT WEEK OPENS

Gettysburg College Commencement Week Opened Sunday with Baccalaureate Sermon and Address before Y. M. C. A.

Gettysburg College commencement week opened Sunday with the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class and the annual address before the Young Men's Christian Association.

The sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. Jeremiah Zimmerman, of Syracuse New York, who had for his text "What think ye of the Christ." The special music for the service was Shelley's "Hark, Hark my Soul" by the choir and a solo "With Verdure Glad," by Miss Ruth Clutz. The seniors as usual wore the cap and gown and were accompanied by a number of the members of the faculty who, together with Dr. Zimmerman, also wore the academic garb.

In the evening Rev. Dr. A. E. Wagner, of Altoona, delivered the address before the Young Men's Christian Association with his text "Silver and gold have I none but such as I have give I unto thee." A quartet Miss Ruth Clutz, Mrs. Henry Anstadt, Rodney Smith and Calvin Lang sang "Now the Day is Over" and the congregational singing was led by the Y. M. C. A. chorus who also sang "Young Men in Christ the Lord."

A large number of alumni have returned for commencement week and many class and fraternity reunions will be held. Several fraternities will hold dances and the social side of the week will be made specially attractive. All the fraternities will hold banquets.

The program for the week has appeared in these columns and will be carried out as originally announced.

WHAT CAUSED ACCIDENT

A Harrisburg paper says that the bolting of the driver's foot from the brake was the trivial incident that was the cause for the automobile tragedy Thursday night when four people plunged to death off the Mulberry street bridge.

His feet, jarred off the clutch and the brake, one of them struck upon the accelerator, used to give the car a burst of speed. This happened when the right front wheel struck the pavement. The accelerator gave the car a sudden impetus, it sprang against the railing and then hung a second on the edge. Another motion of the accelerator, commonly known as the foot throttle, sent the machine and its occupants over the edge.

Of all the theories so far advanced the foregoing is the most plausible. It was developed by a well known physician, who refused to have his name used. Indeed the physician is so much impressed with his theory that today he had the foot throttle removed entirely from his own machine. Whether this is the true theory or not, it is evident that William R. Harrar's unfamiliarity with the machine he was driving had much to do with the fatal accident. It has been the cause for a number of auto enthusiasts to have removed the foot throttles of their machines.

DIAZ CHEERED AT HAVANA

Huge Crowd Greeted Exiled
President.

OFFICIALS CALL ON HIM

Cubans and Loyal Mexicans Did All Possible to Make Exile Forget He Is Not Still President of Republic.

Havana, June 5. — From the time that ex-President Diaz, of Mexico, came into the harbor until his ship, the Ppranga, carried him out past Morro Castle again on the final lap of exile to Europe, Havana did all it could to make him forget that he is not still the honored president of a neighboring republic.

When the steamship left its anchorage, Diaz and his wife, the latter with her arms filled with rare orchids, stood on the captain's bridge and received farewells from hundreds of loyal Mexicans crowding the small craft below. Again the Ppranga's band played the Mexican national air as it had done when Diaz came aboard at Vera Cruz and the final notes were drowned by rising shouts of "Viva Diaz" from those in pleasure boats and passengers on the steamship. Some more enthusiastic Mexicans shot off day fireworks from a point ashore and the air was filled with red, white and green paper parachutes.

Senor Pasalodos, secretary to President Gomez, of Cuba, headed the official delegation which boarded the steamship to say farewell. Among the company was the Mexican consul, the consuls of several Latin-American states, a representative of the governor of Havana, provincial and municipal officers and prominent Mexican residents.

Diaz and his wife and Colonel and Mrs. Porfirio Diaz, Jr., held a formal reception in the saloon. Diaz, who had appeared aged and infirm during the voyage from Vera Cruz, showed again his remarkable mastery over physical infirmities and was as vigorous in appearance and speech and action as any man in the party of visitors forty years younger.

U. OF P. BALLOON SAILED 115 MILES

Wins First Intercollegiate Race in History of Sport.

Peabody, Mass., June 5.—University of Pennsylvania is the winner of the first intercollegiate balloon race in the history of aeronautics, having defeated Dartmouth and Williams for distance and for duration in the race that began at North Adams.

The Pennsylvania balloon, Philadelphia II, landed at West Peabody after covering a distance of 115 miles in a little over seven hours.

The occupants of the Philadelphia II, A. T. Atherholt, the pilot, and George A. Richardson, of the University of Pennsylvania, reported that they had landed in the woods during a heavy thunderstorm, which forced the racers to remain under cover in their basket until morning.

The greatest height reached by the Pennsylvania entry was 12,000 feet, over Fitchburg.

The three contestants left North Adams. The Dartmouth balloon, Boston, piloted by Jay B. Benson, with John W. Pearson as passenger, was the first to land, coming down in West Pelham, Mass., forty-one miles from North Adams, after three hours and fifteen minutes of air traveling.

An hour and a quarter later the Williams balloon, Stevens No. 27, with H. P. Sherman for pilot and K. T. Price as passenger, landed at Paxton, sixty-six miles in an airline from North Adams.

Each of the big gas bags had 35,000 cubic feet capacity.

WILSON FOR DUTY ON WOOL

Endorses Action of Democrats in the House.

HELD CONTINUOUS RECEPTION

Scores of Democrats Called on the Governor at His Hotel and Said Nice Things to Him.

Washington, June 5. — Governor Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, left Washington for Trenton after spending an exceedingly busy day here.

He held a continuous reception in his suite at the New Willard to Democrats of high and low degree. There were members of the senate and the house, a sprinkling of government officials, quite a batch of clerks and any number of other persons who dropped in, apparently just to see and hear the man who, having just completed a 10,000-mile speechmaking trip, is being prominently mentioned as the possible Democratic standard bearer in 1912.

Most of Governor Wilson's visitors seemed to be members of the "you're as good as elected" club. They told the governor what a fine man he was and how the people of the United States were weary of the foot of the tyrant on their necks, were sitting up nights for a chance to vote for him at the polls a year from next November. The governor took all this quite calmly and responded with quiet general conversation and an attractive smile.

Senator Martine, of New Jersey, who was elected to the senate largely as a result of the governor's firm stand, with respect to the New Jersey senatorial primary last year, acted as the governor's master of ceremonies during the day. He met visitors at the door, presented them to the governor and showed out the unimportant ones when he thought they had stayed long enough and the rooms became uncomfortably crowded.

Many pleasant references were made by Governor Wilson to the accomplishments of the house Democrats up to date. He went out of his way to endorse the action of the Democratic caucus in approving the Underwood revenue wool bill, thus lining up with the house majority in opposition to the free wool attitude of William J. Bryan, who, it is said, has looked upon Governor Wilson's presidential aspirations with considerable favor up to this time.

Governor Wilson suggested that as a result of his long speechmaking tour his political views were probably very well known by this time. He added that the one thing that struck him most forcibly during his long trip was the tendency apparent everywhere among the voters to abandon old established party lines.

BUGS KILL YOUNG CHICKENS

Insects on Rose Bushes Fatal to Feathered Tribe.

Burrsville, Md., June 5. — Poultry fanciers in Caroline county have found a new enemy of chickens, and farmers' wives have learned that growing roses and chickens are incompatible.

Mrs. A. M. Dulin has lost more than 100 chickens since the rosebug made its appearance in the flower gardens and scores of others also report heavy losses.

Twenty-two of the bugs were found in some cases in the crops of some of the chickens.

Berlin, June 5.—According to the Berlin Zeitung, an announcement will be made on June 17 of the betrothal of the Princess Louise Victoria, only daughter of the kaiser, to Hereditary Prince Adolf Frederick, of Mecklenburg-Strelitz.

The paper quotes the kaiser as saying: "I do not intend to sacrifice my girl for politics. She shall marry for love above all else."

Vandals Smeared Statue With Paint.

Charlottesville, Va., June 5. — The $30,000 bronze statue of Jefferson on the esplanade of the rotunda at the University of Virginia was smeared all over with yellow paint, and the figures surrounding the Liberty Bell, upon which the statue is imposed and the bell itself were disfigured with blue paint. The outrage has caused much indignation.

Grapes From Argentine.

New York, June 5.—The experiment of importing grapes from the Argentine republic, where the autumn vintage has just been gathered, is being tried. The first trial shipment of 760 boxes arrived here in cold storage on board the steamer Voltaire from Buenos Ayres. The vessel also brought a number of cases of oranges from Brazil.

Politics Cause For Divorce.

McKinney, Tex., June 5.—In suing for divorce, H. S. Smith, of this place, gives as grounds for the action that Mrs. Smith is strongly opposed to Senator J. W. Bailey, while he is the senator's supporter.

YOUR GRAY HAIRS QUICKLY VANISH

A Harmless Remedy, Made from Garden Sage, Restores Color to Gray Hair.

A feeling of sadness accompanies the discovery of the first gray hairs, which, unfortunately, are looked upon as heralds of advancing age. Gray hairs, however, are not always an indication of advancing age, for many people have gray hairs quite early in life. Of course, it is unnatural, and indicates that there is something wrong with the individual, and that Nature needs assistance in correcting the trouble. The same is true of hair that is constantly falling out and becoming thinner every day. If everything is right with Nature, the hair, even in comparatively elderly people, should be long, thick and glossy, without even a streak of gray.

The ideal assistant to Nature in restoring and preserving the hair is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a clean and wholesome dressing for daily use. It not only removes dandruff, but strengthens weak, thin and falling hair and promotes its growth. A few applications will restore faded or gray hair to its natural color.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. People's Drug Store, Special Agent for Gettysburg.

Good News For Catarrh Sufferers

So many hundreds of catarrh victims who have taken the HYOMEI treatment, have written thanking us for publishing our method of taking the HYOMEI vapor treatment in connection with the inhaler that we gladly publish it again.

The vapor treatment is especially recommended in stubborn cases of chronic catarrh of long standing, but remember that the inhaler should be used daily as usual.

This treatment only takes five minutes time before going to bed. Pour a teaspoonful of HYOMEI into a bowl of boiling water, cover head and bowl with towel and breathe for several minutes the vapor that arises.

You will be surprised at the result of this treatment; it makes the head feel fine and clear; you will sleep better, and that stuffed up feeling will gradually disappear.

This method will break up the worst cold in the head in one night.

A bottle of HYOMEI costs 50 cents at People's Drug Store who guarantee it. Complete outfit, which includes the little pocket inhaler, costs $1.00.

No stomach dosing; just breathe HYOMEI and cure catarrh and all diseases of the breathing organs. Free trial bottle by addressing Booth's Hyomei Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

THE SWINEHERD.

One way to improve land rapidly is to pasture hogs on it. Constant care is what develops the pigs into market toppers.

Medium sized hogs are now most in favor. It is best to feed hogs for only eight or ten months. After they are a year old the feeding is not profitable.

When nursing pigs scour, the sow's milk is to be suspected. The trouble usually comes from overfeeding with corn. Sudden changes of food and the use of sour troughs or spoiled food will cause diarrhea. Give the sow fifteen grains of copperas in her slop twice a day for a few days.

Pigs, sows and fattening hogs should be kept in separate inclosures. They will be healthier and derive more benefit from their feeds by such handling.

Sows that come from prolific families are more certain to inherit those qualities and become good mothers than those that descend from families that are less prolific.

SIDEBONES IN HORSES.

Cause and Treatment For This Form of Lameness.

On either side of the coffin bone in the horse there is a cartilage which may in certain cases become hardened by deposits of mineral matters and thus lead to lameness. They are situated on one or both sides of the leg and bulge above the upper portion of the hoof. They may be the result of inflamed conditions, bruises or troubles like corns or hoof cracks. Slipping on the stony pavement is a frequent cause, as well as the great weight of the bodies in heavy horses. If the wagon tongue falls on the foot at this point the cartilage may be injured and induce the disease. The swelling is first noticed just above the hoof or near the heel. Lameness soon follows, says Dr. McIntosh of the Illinois experiment station.

The treatment usually recommended for sidebones consists in the free use of cold foot baths or cold water bandages. Tincture of iodine applied to the swollen parts is very good. A blister applied after the water applications have been made for a week or so is used by many veterinarians. The blister is made of two teaspoonfuls of cantharides mixed with four tablespoonfuls of lard. It is rubbed in well with the fingers and allowed to remain for twenty-four hours, when it is washed off and applied a second time the following week. These applications are continued until the lameness disappears. If this does not bring permanent relief then firing of the injured parts and several months' rest will be necessary.

Dairy Notes.

The capacity of a dairy cow is worthless if she does not have material with which to work.

The blood may supply the milk, but unless it in turn is supplied by the food there can be no milk.

The quality of the butter depends very largely on the care of the milk and cream.

If one cannot afford to buy a mature bull, buy a calf and raise it.

The quality of the cow's milk depends upon the breed and not the feed.

Fattening Cattle.

Investigations by the Missouri experiment station people show that cattle fattened on blue grass pasture will make double the gain on the same grain for the first three months of the pasture season as compared with the late months of the feeding period. The investigation covered five years and involved the feeding of 262 cattle divided into thirty-six lots, being, as is said, the largest and most complete investigation of this subject ever made in this country.

Handling the Heifer.

Be careful about the early training of the dairy cow. The first season after freshening milk the heifer for ten or eleven months to encourage the inclination to long milking periods in succeeding seasons. A young cow is more liable to injuries of the udder by high feeding before or soon after calving than an older cow. And some cows are more susceptible to udder troubles than others and have to be fed moderately before and after the calf arrives.

COACH HURLED OVER PRECIPICE

Fatal Runaway on Road Leading to Yosemite Valley.

ONE DEAD AND TEN INJURED

Allentown Man Killed When Horses Became Frightened on Cliff Road and Coach Plunged Over Side.

San Francisco, June 5.—The first stage coach accident of this season occurred on the road between the Mariposa big tree grove and Yosemite valley.

The horses became frightened on a steep grade and the stage was overturned. R. A. Leisinger, of Allentown, Pa., was killed, and the following were injured: Mrs. Martha Webber, of Boston, arm broken; Mrs. Dresdenorfer, of Boston, shoulder broken; Mrs. A. Jaekel, of New York city, cut over the eye, and seven others slightly injured.

The four horses attached to the coach were also killed and the heavy vehicle itself was crushed to kindling wood in the disaster, which occurred at one of the steepest and most dangerous points of the cliffside road down into the Yosemite valley. The accident was indirectly due to the failure of the brakes on the coach to work when the four horses became frightened.

All were members of a Raymond Whitcomb touring party of forty persons, which started out in four coaches for a trip into the Yosemite hills.

The first of the coaches had begun the perilous return trip, with the high walls of the mountain on one side and a precipice on the other, when the lead horses became frightened and began to plunge wildly. Directly in front lay a sharp turn in the road where there was barely room for the coach to swing around, and realizing their peril the women began to scream, adding to the terror of the horses, which began to gallop madly.

With all his strength the driver flung on the brakes, but they snapped, and although he pulled on the reins with such violence that he sprained both wrists, he was unable to hold the maddened animals, and the coach, rocking and swaying out over the edge of the precipice, went plunging down the mountain side, swinging about the sharp curves, while the cries of horror of those on the coach were echoed by the shouts of their fellow tourists, who could see the whole tragedy being enacted below them.

Twice the rear wheels of the coach slipped from the road in turning the curves of the sharp descent and hung out over space, and twice the coach reeled over against the rocky walls of the mountains till the force of the impact righted it again.

Submarine Makes Fine Target Record

Newport, R. I., June 5.—Improvements in naval marksmanship are not confined to the men who handle the big guns. In the submarine division, it was learned, the Narwhal, while running at top speed between thirty and forty feet under water, made two clean bulls-eyes out of four tries, at a distance of 2000 yards. In her other tests, both on the surface and beneath the water, the boat has done good work, according to officers of the sub-marine flotilla.

New York, June 5.—A woman proceeded along Broadway near Twenty-second street, Bayonne, puffing a cigarette and followed by a crowd of jeering boys and girls. A policeman arrested her after making her throw the cigarette away. She described herself as Grace Saunders, aged thirty, of Jersey City. Recorder Mara lectured her and sent her to the county jail for thirty days.

Washington, June 5.—Talk in administration circles is much more favorable as regards the outlook for reciprocity.

It was said that the president had been advised that the Root amendment on the wood pulp and paper schedule would be beaten and that the probabilities of the passage of the agreement were much improved over a week ago. Senator Penrose, of Pennsylvania, declares there is no chance for the Root amendment.

For a time the senate talked of trying to recess until fall, but Champ Clark has set his foot down hard on this scheme. The finance committee now talks of voting on the bill June 7 and reporting it without amendment.

ORDERS SCORES OF PURE FOOD SUITS

Would Divorce Bake Shop From Drug Store.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 5.—Dairy and Food Commissioner Foust issued instructions to Special Agent H. P. Cassidy, of Philadelphia, to institute proceedings against six dealers in that city for selling sponge cakes colored with coal tar dye to imitate eggs, and against three other dealers for selling mixed cakes colored with a coal tar dye.

The commissioner said the investigation by Mr. Cassidy of the cakes sold from bake shops demonstrated to his satisfaction that a drastic law is needed in Pennsylvania and one that will fully and effectually divorce the bake shop from the drug store. He says coal tar dye as a substitute for eggs is a nefarious practice.

The commissioner added that it was his intention to have prepared a drastic law when the next legislature convenes covering pastry, cakes, etc., and one that will prevent the use of coal tar colors, artificial icings and other drugs in the preparation of cakes and pastry.

Four suits were also ordered against coal tar colored cakes in Pittsburgh, against twenty-nine dealers in various kinds of soft drinks in Philadelphia, where saccharin was used as a substitute for sugar.

Other cases were ordered as follows: One imitation cider vinegar case in Philadelphia, one lard and one maraschino cherry case in McKean county and one oleomargarine case in Berks county.

inch bolts, with wedges to make it

there is no slipping

A TREE THAT OWNS ITSELF.

Deed to Land Around It Not Valid, but Citizens Have Made It So.

The story of a tree which has a formal deed to the ground on which it stands is told by the Outdoor Art League of San Jose. It goes that in Athens, Ga., one William Jackson loved a tree as some men love friends or money. So he gave it its own splendid self to have and to hold, with a deed of all the land within eight feet to be its own, safe from the greedy intrusion of man.

This was an act of such high sentiment as belongs to the days of romance and the knight of La Mancha.
But it was done in our own land less than 100 years ago. Though the deed is not valid in law, the citizens still hold it good and will not have it violated.

FEAT OF A MISSOURI WOMAN.

An Audrain county woman raised 3,000 bushels of corn, 500 bushels of oats, ten wagon loads of pumpkins, nine children and a shiftless husband on eighty acres

United States Gets Basque Shepherds.
One hundred and fifty Basques the first to come to the United States in ten years—have settled in Montana, Oregon and Idaho to engage in the care of sheep and raising of grapes. A few Basques are already scattered over this country, and practically all of them are as good citizens as can be found.

There are half a hundred of them in Colorado, and they are the best sheep herders who ever came to this country.

There is quite an old colony of them in Nevada and they are all rich. The Basques come from the northernmost province of Spain.

The Basques Americanize quicker than some of the peoples of central and northern Europe because they are more eager to learn the English language. They are supposed to be descended from the aboriginal population of the region from whence they came and to have less admixture of other blood than any race in all Europe.—Denver Field and Farm.

Co-operation in Maine.

The Androscoggin Patrons' Co-operative association was recently organized in Auburn, Me., with a capital stock of $10,000 in shares of $5 each.
T. H. Gray is president. The purpose of the association is to buy, sell and deal in all sorts of farming products, tools and machinery, groceries, provisions and general store goods. It is said that Patrons have already pledged their names to take practically all of the stock issued. The important by-law of the company is that dividends shall be repaid to the stockholders of the association of an amount not less than one-half of the net profits in proportion to the purchases of said stockholders semiannually.

A lady friend who is interested in bird life tells us that a flock of about a dozen bluejays visited the neighborhood in which she lives the other day and played havoc with the nests of a number of other valuable birds. Collectively and individually the bluejays are outlaws and pirates in the bird world, and their nests and eggs should be destroyed, particularly when found in the vicinity of other useful birds like the robin, bunting and catbird.
Added to this destructive trait which they possess, like the sparrow they render very meager service in the destruction of insect life.

Peanut butter is not only an appetizing food product, but very nutritious, and it is not difficult to make. The peanuts—meats—may be roasted in a moderate oven either before or after shelling, but in either case they should be stirred quite frequently to insure even roasting. The skins should then be rubbed off. The meats may be ground in an ordinary meat grinder by using the finest plate and should be run through a second time if necessary. If the butter is quite oily after grinding the only ingredient that need be added will be a little salt. If it is not as oily as desirable a little olive or peanut oil may be added.

ROBBINS CIRCUS

Gettysburg people are soon to have a chance to see a circus, for the Frank A. Robbins Show will be here on Monday, June 19, giving two performances and a street parade. The latter will start from the show grounds promptly at ten o'clock in the morning. Mr.
Robbins comes here this year with a show which is practically new, although some of the best features of last year's performance have been retained. The show has about one hundred performers, three bands, a big group of clever clowns, and a number of educated animals. There is a fine menagerie, and the latter is one of the largest carried by any show on the road, aside from the big three ring aggregations. Mr. Robbins has been running his circus for thirty years, which he considers his best recommendation. It is his practice never to advertise anything that is not with the show, and it is his constant aim to give the people their money's worth.

SHADE ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY

Wouldn't our great-grandma giggle
"Te-he" at horses sporting straw sunbonnets in the hot season?

Granddad decorated his bald top with a green cabbage leaf for a sunstroke protector and rigged up old Fan and Dobbin Gray with leafy boughs to keep off flies and skeeters. That beats cuttin' off horses' tails and manes for style and lettin' the pests eat em up.
But don't bother inventin' Biddy bon-nets. Granddad's green bough is good enough sunshade for Biddy.

Just look at the pictures—the one flock cool and contented in that beautiful shady orchard, the other roasting in the glaring sun, with no refuge for relief. A wooden man can tell which flock will turn out better.

Yet some fellows who provide no protection for poultry wonder why many of their chicks and ducklings die and others do not reach a profitable maturity.

It's often the weather. We believe in furnishing a variety of food and allowing fowls to balance their own ration; likewise we afford facilities for sun and shade and let old and young stock take as much of each as necessary.

Sun is necessary for fowls. They love it. Watch them spread their wings and tails, loosen their plumage and incline their bodies to catch the virtue of every ray. It is warmth and a health tonic to a certain limit.
Then it's a roast, and prostration, sunstroke, paralysis, death, follow. Many flocks are prisoners at the stake. The extreme cruelty of it is they can't escape. You see this where there is no shade in the runs, where low roofed houses afford no relief by day or night, where crated poultry stands in the scorching sun.

But this is all so easily remedied and may be so beautifully done.

Simply by planting sunflowers, vines and fruit trees around our poultry houses and runs, by building houses capable of ventilation, by erecting artificial shade where necessary.

While we are apt to get hit by a flameback when we attempt to control the weather, we can so modify matters in the hot season that our fowls may have cool food, cool water and cool retreats, and they must have them to insure success.

DON'TS.

- Don't make nests high. Bumblefoot, cripples.
- Don't let litter get damp. Roup, cramp.
- Don't make ducks climb steps. Broken legs.
- Don't set mice nest with pigeons.
Chilled eggs.
- Don't give homers much hemp. Get fat.
- Don't use bellows for hen lice. Poison.
- Don't use stacked time on dropping boards. Spoils manure.
- Don't loaf; don't snooze away work hours. Loafers become Weary Willies; snoozers are losers.

Perhaps no other fire of human experience is more likely to crack the veneer of etiquette, good breeding and supposed culture than the heat growing out of a disposition of the chattels and moneys of a rich relative, deceased. Often folks that are classed as pretty respectable and well behaved will conduct themselves in such a manner on these occasions as to become the object of the bitterest kind of community reproach and criticism.

A SINGULAR BIRD

By EDWARD BATY

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

"Miss Barker, I reckon we uns have had enough o' this matrimonial business. Anyway, I have, seein' my husban' he's run away with my wife."

"Yo' mean, Mr. Todler, thet your wife run away with my husband?"

"It's just as bad one way as t'other.
I'm goin' to shut my baby boy up and never let him see a gal," said Mr. Tod-ler.

"I was thinkin' o' doin' the same with my baby gal."

"We mought do it up hyar in these mountings and bring 'em clean up without the boy seein' a gal or the gal a boy."

"It's powerful lonsome. Nobody ever comes up hyar unless it's revenue men lookin' fo' stills."

"Waal, mornin', Miss Barker."

"Mornin', Mr. Todler."

The homes of these two persons were far up in the highlands of east Tea-nessee. They were successful in keeping their children from seeing one of the opposite sex till they were sixteen years old. Then the boy demanded a gun. His father gave him one on condition that he never hunt off the inclosure. But one day the youngster followed a bird from tree to tree till he got on to Mrs. Barker's premises.
There, sitting under a tree knitting, he saw Miss Barker. They looked at each other in astonishment.

"Oh, mother," called the girl, "come here! There's the funnest thing you ever saw!"

But Mrs. Barker was not within hearing.

"You mean," said young Todler, "that you are the funnest thing in the world. Queer, isn't it! You can talk just like a man, only your voice is different."

"You must be some kind of a woman."

"You must be some kind of a man."
"I know; mother often told me that there was a thing like you that I must keep away from. She says they polson women's lives. She's always been afraid I'd meet one of them."

"Pop's told me the same thing about what he calls a she man. He said one of them wrecked his life."

"Well," said the girl, "I don't see anything so terrible about you."

"Nor I about you."

She approached him, put her hand on his shoulder, drew it away quickly, put it on his neck, took off his hat and combed his hair with her fingers. He touched her cheek.

"Are you going to bite me?" she asked.

"Not I. Have you got any poison about you?"

"Poison! No. Why do you ask that?"

"Pop says these she men are vipers.
That means snakes. Most snakes are poisonous."

"Your pop must be horrid."

She patted his cheek with the palm of her hand. He put his arm around her waist. With the other hand he pulled her chin around near his face.
Instinct told him to touch his lips to hers.

"Isn't that nice?" he said.

"Kind o' nice."

"Do you wish me to do it again?"

"I don't care."

He did it again and again. Then he noticed her hair done up in a knot at the back of her head. Pulling at it, he at last got the hairpins out, and the coil fell on her shoulder.

"By gum!" he exclaimed. "What in thunder do you let your hair grow like that for?"

"Why do you cut yours off?"
Following a natural inclination, these two young things clung to each other, the boy winding his arms about the girl and the girl about the boy.

"I'm thinking," said the girl.

"About what?"

"My mom has warned me against your kind, and your pop has warned you against my kind. If we tell them anything about this they'll tie us both up the way they do the dogs."

"We needn't tell."

"Suppose we don't."

They concluded that they were too near the she-man's mother for safety, so they strolled away to a safe distance and remained together several hours. When they separated the she-woman kissed her, which shows plainly that lovers' kisses at meeting and parting are a matter of instinct.

When the girl went into the house and met her mother she said not a word about the queer creature she had met. And this shows that a prime law of nature with the sex is to get the better of each other, which enables them to get the better of their husbands. Her mother asked her where she had been so long, and she said she had been out in the woods listening to a frog croaking in the creek. A queer sound came from it she had never heard before.

When the boy went home his father asked him if he had had any luck. He replied that he had seen a bird of paradise, but it was so beautiful he hadn't the heart to kill it. His father suspected from an absentmindedness about his boy that he had seen a girl.
He asked what the bird looked like.

"Pretty near as big as I—a big topknot at the back of its head and no legs. At least I could not see any."

The father groaned.

The next day Mr. Todler held a conference with Mrs. Barker, with the result that Todler took his son to her house, a minister said things over to the two youngsters, and they were told that each could keep the other for a jet.

Some tests which have been made late in the use of saccharin as an element in food products shows that when taken in an amount exceeding three-tenths of a grain a day it tends to injure the digestion. Saccharin is a distillate of coal tar and is 300 times as sweet as sugar. In view of the chemists' report it is likely that Secretary Wilson will put it on the prescribed list as deleterious and injurious to health.

WHY SHROPSHIRE ARE PREFERRED

What has made the Shropshire so popular? More Shropshires are fed and marketed in England than any other two breeds, writes a New York farmer in American Agriculturist. In this country there are over 4,000 breeders on the membership roll and more than 328,000 animals recorded. The reason the breed is popular is because these sheep give better returns for money invested than any other of the mutton breeds. The English farmers, you know, are not slow to find out what sort of live stock is the most profitable for them to keep, and American farmers are not slow, either. The Shropshire Registry association has nearly as many members as all other

The Shropshire here pictured shows remarkable quality. Many farmers consider the Shropshire one of the best all around sheep they can raise. The breed is of composite character, which has been improved largely during the past century through crossing and selection and also through better care and food. In its production the blood of the Southdown, Cotswold and Leicester has been intermixed.
Although the grazing qualities are good, the breed requires better pastures than the Southdown or Merino. There are more Shropshires in England than of all other mutton breeds together.

sheep registry associations of the mutton breeds combined. This is ample proof of the popularity of the breed.

Now, back of this breed are the business capabilities of the Shropshire to make lots of money. These sheep show a profit to their feeder and breeder if given any reasonable chance to do so. They are the most cosmoopolitan of the mutton breeds and on the same amount of food will excel the other breeds in making more pounds of both mutton and wool than their rivals. They are also very prolific. With good care at least one and one-quarter lambs may be expected on the average to each ewe in the flock, but it is not uncommon even in large flocks to get an average of one and one-half lambs to each ewe. I doubt also if there is any breed that is better adapted for crossing or for breeding on our own native ewes than the Shropshire. Any one who follows the market reports of the leading live stock markets will see that lambs sired by Shropshire rams are continually topping the market. The winnings at the leading live stock exhibitions show that for grades and crossbreds three-fourths of the winners are sired by Shropshire rams. Shropshires are popular sheep in this country because they are worth while sheep.

Swine in Summer.

As to the summer management of swine there is little to say.

Raise plenty of rape and either let the pigs feed it off or mow off and throw a little in the inclosure often.
The animals should be graded so the different lots can be used to the best advantage. Good, thrifty shots intended for an early fall market can be very profitably fed on a mixture of corn, oats and barley and best quality of wheat bran. If each is allowed a quart a day of this mixture in the early fall it will get along in good shape.
It is an open question still whether it is any advantage to cook the food.
Theoretically cooked food ought to be more digestible than raw, and the pigs certainly like it better. Warm feed is a preventive of stomach and intestinal troubles. A chilled pig is very much like a chilled person.

Feed and Milk Production.

Whatever makes feed taste better or more enjoyable to cows increases its value for milk production. Early cut alfalfa is best not only because it contains more protein than that cut late, but because its aroma and its flavor make it more palatable. The appetizing effect from early cutting and careful curing of all forage crops increases the food value for milk production. Freshly harvested and fully ground grain is most palatable to dairymen, and it will give best results.
Dairymen who grind feed should grind often, as grain that has lost its freshness is not best relished.—Farm Journal.

Will Try Persian Lambs.

The department of agriculture is seriously considering the introduction into this country of Bokhara sheep, from which comes the fur called "Persian lamb." All Astrakhan fur is now raised on territory tributary to the Caspian sea. The best fur is taken from the lamb when it is only four or five days old. The Bokhara sheep also make good mutton.

Oilmeal For Horses.

An occasional handful of oilmeal will do the horses good, especially if their main grain is corn. The pea size oil cake is the handiest for this purpose.
